Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Species shown in Fig.1 in Paper No. 12 is acknowledged.

Claims 13-47 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 12.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, there is no antecedent basis for "the flow path".

The scope of claim 2 is impossible to determine, as there is no antecedent basis for "said storage means".

Claims 13-16 noted by applicant as readable on fig. 1 contain elements that the examiner is unable to locate support in the original specification as to their inclusion in the species of fig. 1.

However, the applicant should be made aware that the examiner did note the following with respect to claims 15 and 16, even though these claims have been withdrawn... claim 15 provides no antecedent basis for "said temperature sensor" and claim 16 provides no antecedent basis for "said absolute humidity sensor".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Huddart, et al.-5640951 or Gradon, et al.-6349722 in view of Noda, et al.-JP 09234247 A.

Huddart and Gradon both disclose humidification systems for breathing circuits having humidification chambers, heating means for heating water and the airway tube, and sensor means at the outlet of the humidifier chamber and the patient end of the airway tubing adjacent the patient. However, the absolute humidity sensing means is not disclosed. Noda teaches that absolute humidity can be determined by using a temperature sensor and a relative humidity sensor. It would have been obvious to have used both temperature sensors and humidity sensors at the locations where Huddart and Gradon have their temperature sensors in order to provide a more reliable and accurate reading of the humidity of the gas being outputted from the chamber and being delivered to the patient. Both Huddart and Gradon teach the concept of monitoring the differences between the readings at these two locations within the circuit to better determine that amount of condensation and to provide feedback to a control means responsible for increasing or decreasing the heating of the water in the chamber to achieve a desired humidity level of the gases being breathed by the patient. When parameters outside those desired are achieved, alarms may be generated.

The other elected claims (2-12) are too indefinite to provide meaningful art rejections at this time, but the examiner has identified features of these claims disclosed by the prior art in the above rejection.
